

M'IVER WINS THE ELECTION

Unofficial Returns Show That Oshkosh Man Has Won Over H. C. Buell, In Contest.

CONVENTION OPENS IN MILWAUKEE

Four Thousand Teachers Are Expected To Take Part In The Exercises Before The Convention Is Closed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—3:30—While the official returns from the primary election for president of the Wisconsin State Teachers' Association will not be made public until evening an unofficial report made this afternoon shows that M. N. Melvyn of Oshkosh will be the next president. This means the defeat of H. C. Buell of Janesville who has been considered the winner in the spirited contest that has been going on. The real contest of the convention, however, is for the secretaryship which lies between Miss Katherine Williams the present secretary and Andrew A. Brown, both of the same school in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 7.—The Cream City capitulated today to an army of teachers who will remain in possession of the city during the rest of the week. The occasion is the fifty-fifth annual meeting of the Wisconsin Teachers' association, one of the largest and most influential associations of its kind in the country. The attendance is unusually large and the program one of the most interesting ever prepared for a meeting of the association.

The initial session today was devoted to a discussion of "School and Society." Among the speakers heard were State-Superintendent of Public Instruction Charles P. Cary, Prof. F. A. Root of the University of Wisconsin.

DAIRY FARMING IS GOOD FOR FARMERS

J. Q. Emory Says It Instills a Spirit of Humanity in Farmer.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 7.—J. Q. Emory, state dairy and food commissioner of Wisconsin, who a year ago announced the hypothesis that cleanliness and sanitary methods in the manufacture of dairymilk products would tend to rid that dairy product of the terrible odor which it characterizes if it has not been announced the fact that the raising of cows and the successful operation of dairy industry tends to produce habitual kindness and humane spirit. In a hearing before the Wisconsin railroad rate commission yesterday, Commissioner Emory declared that he would in every possible way encourage the dairy industry, not merely because that industry produced great wealth for the state, but because of the due social influence it exerted. The controversy between the railroads and the dairymen is over the rates on milk and cream, while the dairymen declare are so adjusted as to allow the dairy corporations to monopolize the cream market and drive out the local dairymen. Mr. Emory explained to the commission that the most profitable results are obtained by the utmost kindness toward the cows, that to abuse them with impure food and water, short rations and infrequent watering, kicks and curses, makes the cows give less and inferior milk, and this fact induces habit of care and kindness on the part of the dairymen toward his stock, and this habit is carried into the home and into society. Commissioner places this fact ahead of milk production to the credit of the cow. He says that the induction of more milk of human kindness is the greatest service of the faithful bovine.

Harlings was awakened from his bed at the home of his sister fifteen miles from Eau Claire at three o'clock Tuesday morning to help put out a fire in a neighbor's house. He disappeared during the fire and has been wandering ever since. The physician who looked into Harlings' condition told him he had walking typhoid.

He admitted the immigration question was the most serious matter, but positive it would be settled without friction.

NOTED CRIMINAL IS SLOWLY STARVING HIMSELF TO DEATH

Curtiss Ferry, Who Robbed Money Car Of Express Train And Made Daring Escape On Locomotive, Slowly Dying In Prison.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Nov. 7.—The news received from Dannemora prison this week that Oliver Curtis Ferry is slowly starving himself to death at that institution has revisited memory of this daring and noted criminal, who seventeen years ago started the entire country with the boldness of his train robbing exploit.

The crime for which Ferry is now serving practically a life sentence was the robbery of the American Express Company's special train on Feb. 21, 1882. One car of the train was known as the money car. It was sent the specie from the United States Treasury for western banks.

On the day of the robbery the train left Syracuse at 5 o'clock in the morning. The money car was next to the rear coach. When they were nearing Wethersfield, Perry, who had ridden on top of the money car from Syracuse, let himself over the side of the car by means of a rope. He smashed in the glass with his revolver and ordered the messenger to throw up his hands. The messenger shot at Perry. Then Perry shot him twice. Perry climbed into the car and there was a desperate fight.

The conductor heard the row and stopped the train. Then he looked out. Perry looked out of the express car when the train stopped, saw the conductor, and shot at him. The conductor sent a brakeman back to the next station to telegraph along the line that they had a train robber on board. Then they went on to Port Byron. They stopped at the station and took care of the messenger who was badly wounded. Perry had disappeared. At Lyons, where the next stop was made, there was a big crowd. Perry was in the crowd. He had evidently got off the further side of the train when it stood in the station.

The conductor recognized him and made a rush for him. Perry kept the crowd back with his revolver and made good his escape.

ran across the tracks to where a coal train was standing. He uncoupled the engine and jumped into the cab and ordered the engineer and fireman to get out of sight. Then he pulled the throttle open and started at top speed. The express train's engine was uncoupled and a party started after him.

When they were about to overtake him he stopped his engine, reversed it, and started back. As he passed his pursuers, who were on another track, he fired two shots through the cab window. The pursuing engine was reversed and backed after him. Perry went ahead again. As he passed his pursuers this time he shot through the cab again. The men on the pursuing engine found they could not catch him and went back to Lyons. Perry found the steam geyser out and abandoned the engine. He then started across country. Finally he was captured at Newark.

He was afterward convicted and sentenced to Auburn prison for a long term of years. He had served about a year and a half when he was transferred to Mattoon as incurably insane. When he had been in Mattoon about two years he and four other inmates escaped from that institution at a late hour in the night.

It was several weeks before he was again captured and he was then transferred to Dannemora.

He has been a source of constant trouble to his keepers and the news that he has refused to eat for four years and that it has been necessary during all that time to force nourishment down his throat through a tube does not surprise those acquainted with the desperate character of the man. One of the most remarkable features of the case is that he is stone blind, having himself ruined his eyes in the hope that his relatives, who deserted him years ago, would come to his aid.

INDIANA TEAM IS NOT, ANY WEAKLING

Coach Jimmy Sheldon Writes His Players Are Able to Give Good Game.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 7.—A letter has been received here from Coach Jimmy Sheldon, formerly the Maroon football star, now coach of the Indiana university eleven, which illustrates the great change which has been brought about in the great college game. In the last few years, Coach Hutchins has received a letter from the former Chicago star quarterback and end, declaring the Hoosier team to be strong, well trained and determined to give Wisconsin a great battle here Saturday. Years ago, before the "destitution" of football, it was the practice of rival coaches to spy upon their rivals, send out emissaries to find out the style and policies of the opponents, give out the most ingenious tales about hospital lists and multiplicities of misfortunes, so as to make the other team think it had a clinch and then spring a great surprise and rush the "other fellows" off their feet. This certainly was the old school policy at Madison and some other schools believed in and practiced it. Now it is so different. Wisconsin early in the season declared that it would hold no secret practice and would not spy in any way upon opponents, as that was contrary to the spirit of the new game of college football. Now a rival coach, who has not made an attempt to do the same, takes the trouble to inform his opponent that he will assuredly be a strong team, determined to win. Old followers of the game here, who remember the ways of the strenuous and bitter past, look upon this incident as one which eight or ten years ago would never have been thought of even in a dream.

ANOTHER VIEWPOINT

The "New York Tribune" has this to say concerning the financial situation:

"The events of the past two weeks will, no doubt, be seized upon as a basis for numerous sermons. The advocates of an asset currency will find reasons for referring to the present condition of affairs as a pretext for urging on the country a new form of banking currency, whereas on the other hand those who adhere to a bond-secured circulation, will discover equally cogent reasons for arguing against any change in our present circulating medium."

"Yet when the late panic is reviewed impartially, it seems to us that it sprang from causes not connected with the currency question at all, but from an unreasoning fear, which if continued to a logical conclusion, would have broken every bank in the United States, asset currency or no asset currency."

"The people and even bankers themselves have been very slow to endorse any plan of asset currency, and we do not believe that the recent panic will lead them to give authority to any set of institutions to increase their power to expand liabilities without throwing safeguards around this privilege."

"As between banks, united in association, it is not improbable that the people are willing to give to them almost any power to protect themselves. In short, we think that everybody recognizes the importance and safety of a clearing house certificate. That something similar, but based on general assets, will be permitted to go into actual circulation is rather doubtful."

"The Evening Wisconsin," in commenting, says:

"There has never been so much good money in the country as there is today. The gain in national bank-note circulation during October was $5,000,000, and the total circulation of national bank note currency now amounts to $600,000,000, which is $26,000,000 more than a year ago. There is over a billion and a half of gold in circulation, and upward of $300,000,000 greenbacks. The pinch at the present time is due to hoarding. Secretary Cortelyou spoke on this subject in an interview the other day, to the effect that not only patricians but self-protection should impel people to refrain from withdrawing their money from the banks and hiding it away at such a time as the present. In New York, San Francisco, and several other cities the safety deposit boxes contain money that if placed in the banks would at once relieve all fears for the situation."

"The arrangements in several cities to provide local emergency circulation show energy and resourcefulness. What is chiefly to be hoped for, however, is the essential condition of restored prosperity, in the quick return to the channels of trade of the good money which has gone into hiding."

"The Tribune's opinion that what has happened in the United States would not have been prevented by asset currency gains support from what is taking place in Germany. Despite the elaborate system for insuring creditability to the circulation in Germany there have been several bank failures, and there is much uneasiness."

This is a feature of the situation which has been given but little attention, and yet it is a very important feature. Many people like to hoard money. It seems more tangible than any other kind of property. They are skeptical concerning the stability of banks, and so the currency and gold is laid away in safety deposit vaults or hid in stockings.

No thought is given to the loss of interest or to the more serious proportion that every dollar thus put out of business means impairment of the circulating medium. If all the money thus sequestered today was out in the open where it should be, there would be no dearth of currency."

A manufacturer in Chicago, who employs 275 men at a weekly pay roll of $3500, was surprised, the other day, when his office was besieged by his employer, who placed on his desk $6,000 in currency to help him out, money which had been hid away at home.

During the panic of 1893 a Janesville mechanic became alarmed, and in spite of all that could be sold, called for his money at a local bank.

Two years later he brought into an office for investment a moldy gunny sack containing $3,500 in $20 gold pieces, rusty and corroded from disuse. Asked where he had kept it he said, "In my cellar."

"What the nation needs today, more than anything else, is a restoration of confidence. While reformers of high and low degree have been howling about corruption, and the majesty of law, and all sorts of drastic legislation has been enacted to regulate everything in sight, confidence has been weakened, and all kinds of American securities have suffered. The loss of confidence is a serious loss, and every effort should be made to restore it."

SARCASTIC CRITICISM

The Wall Street Journal says, with a good deal of sarcasm:

"A newly organized society, with headquarters in New Haven, is trying to persuade President Roosevelt to establish a department of health."

"Well, so far as most of us in this neck-of-the-neck are concerned, we would prefer a department of health to a department of education."

The Journal has long been a staunch supporter of the President, and has frequently defended him against attacks at the great money center, but some recent occurrences have tried the patience of the publisher.

President Roosevelt was in Nashville, on his way from the south, the other day, and delivered one of his characteristic speeches on punishing wrongdoers, claiming that he was in no way responsible for present conditions.

This is the eloquence referred to, for it so happened that while the speech was being delivered, his secretary of the treasury was in New York, exhausting every effort to avert a panic and save the nation from financial ruin.

Associated with him was Rockefeller and other financiers who were under the ban as wrongdoers, so that the President's address seemed ill-timed and out of place. Less eloquence and more conservative common sense is demanded today of all public servants from the White House down."

Chicago has several murder trials being tried before juries just now, so that the Windy City is not without amusement for those of a morbid disposition. One is a woman accused of killing her father by poison and the other a man who is accused of the same methods of dealing death to persons.

Opponents to Taft now state that he is no longer in the running just because Cleveland turned down Burton. Cleveland is not the whole country, neither is Ohio. Taft's boom is not punctuated by any means and sharply not by Uncle Tom's sharp agents.

The telegraphers have decided to end their strike and apply for their old jobs again. The telegraph companies have lost hundreds of thousands of dollars by the strike, but managed to exist and weather the storm that for a time threatened to paralyze business.

Raymond Hitchcock has returned to the stage after appearing in court to answer to the complaint he was a "bad" actor. From the reception he was given by his audience it would appear they think he is a "good" actor.

When it comes to the city of Janesville buying a street roller, because it is cheap the question of economy is not to be considered. The best is none too good to use on the streets of the city to be rolled.

Despite the cry that certain saloons made them would be driven out of business by the Sunday closing law enforcement one more saloon has been started since it was enforced away at such a time as the present.

In New York, San Francisco, and several other cities the safety deposit boxes contain money that if placed in the banks would at once relieve all fears for the situation.

Sec. of State Cortelyou spoke on this subject in an interview the other day, to the effect that not only patricians but self-protection should impel people to refrain from withdrawing their money from the banks and hiding it away at such a time as the present.

The question of good roads for Rock county is one of importance and it is with pleasure that the Gazette notes that members of the county board are investigating the question with care and attention.

Hunters who have hunted near Koskodanong in past years complain that this fall the ducks are scarce, civilization and carpentry have driven them from the former feeding grounds.

Traveling men selling staple articles state that they see no difference in selling articles now and before the

New York stock jobbers tried to corner the money market.

Prices are bound to drop and when the cry about them will not be prevalent as at present. But, for instance, has gone down five cents in fourteen days.

Rumors that W. D. Connor had secured control of the Milwaukee Free Press are indignantly denied. The Free Press is still the organ of Senator Isaac Stephenson.

In H. C. Buell, Janesville has a candidate for President of the state teachers' association that ranks well with the educators of the state at large.

Poohball is now the talk. Janesville has a good little high school team that stands well in the state at large as composed of a lot of plucky youngsters.

Sherbie Becker has again been offered a job on the stage. Sherbie is a great fellow to have jobs offered him where the limelight shines.

This drop in prices so much talked about has not as yet struck any of the Janesville merchants. However, it will come sooner or later.

Cashier's checks are just as good as money and no one appears to be losing any sleep over their appearance as a medium of exchange.

This election of a highway commissioner by the county board next week will be watched with interest by taxpayers the county over.

Mister Hearst was sick at his home in New York last night when the news of the defeat of his fusion was announced to him.

Roosevelt, it is said, approves of Mr. Cortelyou's plan for currency to prevent any future return of the present inconvenience.

Uncle Sam is still in line to export four million bushels of wheat should Europe desire them.

New York republicans who fused with the Hearst League received a well merited reproof.

Prize-fighting may be all right in its place, but its place is not in civilized communities.

Sun Francisco has redeemed itself once more and refuses to stand for graft any longer.

Tom Johnson demonstrated that even Presidential interference can not defeat him.

Few persons really expected that Kentucky would go republican again.

The question of currency is one which Congress can wrestle with.

So New Jersey decided to elect a republican Governor after all.

CONGRESSMAN GOES THROUGH HERE TODAY

H. A. Cooper Passed Through Janesville This Morning on His Way to Monticello.

Congressman H. A. Cooper passed through here this morning en route to Monticello, Wis., where he will deliver his Philippine lecture tonight under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. of that place. This is his second visit to Green county in less than two weeks time and is said to have some significance in the congressional campaign that takes place next fall. Green county has been a stronghold for the congressman in the past but it is declared that he will have a hard fight to keep it in line at the next primary. During his last visit to Green county he gave out an interview to all the newspapers at Monroe stating he was going to exert his best efforts to secure an appropriation for a federal building for Monroe at the coming session of congress.

The funeral was held at 1:30 yesterday afternoon and interment was made in the Beloit cemetery

This Time it Was Different.

"To tell the truth, Dr. Richards," said the wife of one of our most prosperous merchants, "I have neglected my teeth for years, since Dr. [name] of this city filled some teeth for me."

"The hunt me so dreadfully that I laughed and cried in almost hysterics when at last he let me out of that chair."

"Well," said Dr. Richards, "how was it this time?"

"You never hurt me one bit," said she and the Dr. had just finished filing a lot of her teeth with gold.

It is very pleasant to Dr. Richards to receive these kind words from bright, intelligent people who know when they receive good services and appreciate them.

The multitude of hearty endorsements given him in this city by people who have tried him and found his work really palatable, makes him stand out clearly among his fellows as the man to go to for real painless dentistry in Janesville.

The prices are also reasonable, which is not a bad feature for the one who pays the bill.

In our advertisements we've mostly talked about the PURITY of our pasteurized milk.

We've said little, if anything, about its richness.

And it IS rich.

Lots of good, thick cream on it.

IN THE SITUATION

Pittsburg, St. Louis, Milwaukee and Chicago as Well as Other Cities Use Cashier Checks.

There is but little change in the local financial situation. Cashier checks are being issued by the four banks according to their clearing house agreement and accepted by the merchants the same as cash. No one except perhaps a few traveling men who find it annoying to be paid only a portion of the checks or drafts, are seriously inconvenienced by the system. Persons who find it necessary to travel have been given sufficient cash for their needs and furnished with drafts on Chicago and eastern banks. The great influx of gold coin into New York, the starting of the millions into the Northwest to add in the movement of the crops, will do much towards aiding in the banking affairs of Chicago and Milwaukee, which will mean Janesville will be immediately affected and the embargo raised.

KE-NO-SHE-A CLUB PREPARES FOR THE ANNUAL DEER HUNT

"Do you know the long day's trumpet-note from the lodge in the wonderful wilderness? It not, however, one of lofty poesy. 'Get here as soon as you can with the provisions, we are on our hot pork-hunt!' Is the burden of his song. The 'wa-washishiby' deer are pretty scarce, he tells Chief Appleby in his letter, though elsewhere he acknowledges having assisted in dressing twelve mangers and bluebirds on the previous day, and alludes to a prospective duck-dinner on the day following. H. G. Carter is asked to bring up some decoy-weights as the cloth for making the stone-boiling traps.

British and American Jews. A statistical report recently published by the British government shows that there are 20,000 Jews in Cape Colony, 18,000 in India, 17,000 in Australia, 16,000 in Canada and 4,000 in Ireland. A Yiddish paper commenting on the report says: "These figures look large, but they become small when compared with New York, where there are in two words more American Jews than there are British Jews all over the world."
